

References on diet therapy in diabetics by Indian authors

1. Gulati, P.D., Vaishnava, H. (1969). Effect of high carbohydrate diet on control of diabetes. In Proc. First Nat. Cong. on Diabetes. Ed. Viswanathan, M., Krishnaswami, C.V., Madras, p 366.
2. Viswanathan, M. (1973). A new orientation in the management of diabetes. J. Ass. Phys. India. 21, 887.
3. Dua, S., Ahuja, M.M.S. (1975). Coarse cereals in management of diabetes. Research Society for Study of Diabetes in India. IIIrd Scientific meeting, Madras.
4. Vishwanathan M, Snehlatha C., Ramachandran A. & Mohan Vishwanathan (1978). Effect of calorie restricted high carbohydrate, high protein, low fat diet on serum lipids in diabetes-a follow up study. J. Ass. Physy, India, 26, 163.
5. Viswanathan M., Snehalatha, C., Ramachandran A. & Mohan Viswanathan (1979). High carbohydrate diet in diabetes-long term experience, In Excerpta Medica, Abst. No. 639, p. 84.
6. Krishna Ram, B., Singh, N.P. & Gupta, M.L. (1979). The effect of cellulose-a dieting fibre component on oral glucose tolerance, J. Ass. Phys. India, 27, 205.
7. Ahuja M.M.S. (1979). Diabetes and hyperlipidemia-annotation. J. Ass. Phy. India. 23, 559.
8. Ahuja M.M.S. (1980) Dietetic analysis of North Indian diabetics (Non-core study). Presented at W.H.O. meeting, Multinational Study on Vascular Diseases in Diabetes Study No...Bern, September, 1980.
9. Krishna Ram, B. & Gupta M.L. (1981). The effect of dietary fibre constituents (Pectin & Guar gum) on oral glucose tolerance. J. Ass. Phys. India 29, 741.
10. Rekha Sharma, Ahuja, M.M.S. (1982). Profile of nutrition in IDDM compared to NIDDM in North India. Research Society for Study Diabetes in India, IX Scientific meeting.